

Merry Christmas

Happy New Year 2018

2017 Started out really great. In February everything started going downhill.

In January Dennis, on his day off, I was fixing breakfast for Fred Dennis and me, when Damon came over, they live next door to us. I went ahead and fixed breakfast for him, too. It was wonderful to have my boys for breakfast. Just the four of us, like it was when they were small. Stella, who was still at home a sleep and the grandkids are all gone.

The middle of February Fred was complaining about being tired all the time and wanting to sleep, and would become exhausted just from walking over to Damon's house. The doctors put in a pacemaker. It did help.

In May our Grandkids moved in while they were trying to get approved for their new home. Their lease was up May 28 and they were told by the end of May, or the first of June they would have the approval and be able to move in. First of September they were approved and by the end of September we had our home back. They do have a really nice home.

Then in October 16th Fred went through a Transurethra Prostate Surgery because he was passing blood every time he went to the bathroom. He seemed to be doing okay now, but he did pass blood yesterday. Fred got sick and we still don't know what is going on with him. He just can't seem to get his energy back. He does just a little bit and is back in bed for a couple of hours. Last of November and first of December, we both came down with the Dizzy Virus. Never heard of it before and I pray we never get it again.

Chris age 28, Drew 25, and Brad 23

Brad is doing great, still working at Mookstr, but the business is moving to Rogers next year. It's great because most of the workers, including Brad, all live in Rogers. Drew works as a Security Guard for Tyson and CJ works for Old Navy and she loves it there. Chris is still at Winter Park in Colorado and Emily is working at home for the Animal Shelter.

Genesis, age 4,
she is a doll.

I made Genesis's Halloween
costume. She is Owlette, a Disney character. She loved it.

That's it from all of us in the Northwest part of Arkansas.
