

Merry Christmas and a Great, Wonderful, and Happy New 2021 Year. God Bless America

Here it is another year gone by. What a year this has been. Last year I was looking forward to getting a lot of sewing done, maybe a trip, since we haven't had one since 2009. One thing I have been thankful for during all of this, with my father going home to be with the Lord in 2010, taking care of my mom and her going home in 2018, and all this mess, politics, COVID-19, staying at home, washing your hands, not hugging, or shaking hands, wearing a mask, not able to buy toilet paper, (which did not affect us because we had plenty before the pandemic hit) was that GOD was and is in control of this all. He knows just what is happening and He does intend to do something about it. We or me, just have to be patient and wait to see what God is going to do. I do know that Our President Donald J. Trump, who is our president now, will be our President for the next four years. I know because God told me he would be at 10 o'clock and then Joe Biden would lose by a default. What God meant about Joe Biden, I have no idea. But keep the faith and hang in there because Donald Trump will be in and Joe Biden will be out. Praise God, I am so thankful that I love the Lord and He is on our side.

Now for my newsletter. We are all well and doing fine. Fred is having a lot of bad days, but he also has some good days in there. I am still praying and believing that God will heal him completely, and thank everyone that has been praying for us also. I know that there has been a lot of you. I believe in prayers.

Genesis, our great grand-daughter, age 7, I home school her on Monday and Tuesday, because of mom & dad's jobs. Some days we do bump heads and some days it is a breeze.

She is growing up too fast. I did make her about 30 doll dresses in all, Barbie and a little 5 ½ inch doll.

Which is Barbie little girl. I have a 5-year-old great niece and I make her the same thing.

Fred, Genesis, and me, on our back porch.

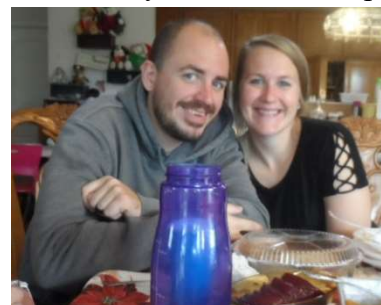

Thanksgiving Day, we had a wonderful time. There were 15 of us here. Damon and Stella could not make it because they were not feeling good.

Here is a picture of all the pies I made for that day, 18 of them. The pies on the left, were for them to take home. The pies on the right was to eat then. Even some of those pies went home with them. It was a beautiful day, as you can see, we didn't stick to that 6-foot rule either. We just trust in the Lord.

We got some wonderful news, Chris our oldest grandson, that moved to Colorado about five years ago, decided to move back home and get his own business going. Him and his wife, Emily, had just bought them a home last year, but they didn't have any trouble selling it, and now they are looking here. Plus, Emily was able to keep her job, because of the internet age, and Chris' new job is doing great.

Drew and CJ. Drew is still working as a security guard at Tyson's. CJ will be starting a new full time job on Monday, Dec. 14th. She has been working part-time for several years at Old Navy.

Here is Levi (11), setting in the chair, and Eli (13) with his arm around his brother. Levi, Eli, and Ellie are being home schooled.

Christina and Jason Rose, my niece and her husband. They live in Huntsville about an hour drive from us. They have two boys and one girl; Eli, Levi, and Ellie.

Here's Brad a few weeks before Thanksgiving. Brad is still working at mOOKstr as a senior programmer.

Remember the kids table? I believe everyone of us had to set at the kids table, but we really didn't want to. Now Dennis doesn't mind. He just as soon set there than the big table, which really helps and I think he knows that. Helps to keep the kids in line and he doesn't have to listen to us talk. Clockwise from the left is; Genesis, Ellie, and Levi.

Here's Dennis. He is still working at Walmart at the Neighborhood market not far from the house.

We didn't get a picture of Damon or Stella this year.

That about wraps this up for this year. I just pray we never, ever see another year like this year has been.

Love and Prayers to all of you and the World. God Bless, and Merry Christmas 2020
Fred, Dot, Dennis, Damon, Stella and all the grandkids, and Genesis and a group of dogs and cats.
